

Hear from a Network Marketing Child

By Ashley White, 20 years old

My Mom takes me on a lot of trips. We have been to Hawaii many times together. I have flown several times to Hawaii by myself to see friends. My mom and I went to Maui once by ourselves and that was a special trip. She took me down to the beach and we drew our names in the sand. We went snorkeling and whale watching together.

Through the years I was involved in soccer, volleyball, modeling, basketball, I was an Aspen High School Cheerleader and was all conference in Soccer. My mother never missed a game. I was on MTV as a cheerleader and took snowboarding lessons in Snowmass.

My mom bought me my first car while I was in High School. I consider myself a leader because my mom always talks about my being a leader and I believe her. I got myself fired up at my soccer games by doing a cheer with my team called "Fire Up!" and it just helped me play better when I went on the field. My teammates got fired up too by the cheer before we went out to play and we all seemed to play better.

When I was in High School, my mother took me to London. We went to the theaters and shopping and to Shakespeare's home because I was studying Shakespeare at the time. We then jetted on to Kenya, Africa. We met my sister at the train station there and then took a private plane out to the Masai Mara. It was incredible to see the people there and their culture. My sister went on to India and Mom and I had a driver take us to The Ark in Kenya where we could watch the animals at the salt licks, then we traveled on to Mt. Kenya Safari Club that was built by William Holden and Stephanie Powers. It is so beautiful. She took me to High Tea there and it was so special.

I can't list all the places my mother has taken me. She has taken me so many places with her. I love traveling with my mom. She is so proud of me.

When I graduated from High School, my mother and step dad designed the most beautiful diamond ring for me. My mother calls me from all over the world as she travels. I am now in college and in a sorority and loving going to school where I can see my brother almost every day. I am looking forward to being a bridesmaid in my sisters wedding.

My mother and I recently went golfing together. I did great my first time on the course. I love Lucky Days with my mother. We go to our Country Club for lunch, shopping and then spend the rest of the day together. I love having my Mom all to myself. My mom is my friend. I can barely wait to get back to school because I get to move into my new apartment, which my mother and I decorated together! Mom is going to drive with me part of the way back to school so that we can stop in Dallas to go shopping together. My Mom will come see me on Parent's Weekend on her way to Ireland and the UK this year.
